

Lynn Miller

General Manager · WildWays Ltd

Lynn has over 45 years of hands-on experience working with wildlife, in aspects from field response to oil spills, surveying and establishing health parameters in seabirds, rehabilitating wildlife, consulting and teaching globally, while pursuing academic studies to understand ways to mitigate our impact on our wild neighbours.

She established Le Nichoir wild bird rehabilitation centre in Hudson, Quebec, Canada, with three wonderful friends. It was initially based in her home, then a converted but still very rustic barn built in 1846. Now, this organisation is a very respected wild bird rehabilitation facility with a very modern facility and professional team.

Her work also saw her hold positions including Director of Rehabilitation for the Cape Wildlife Centre, Barnstable, MA, and Director of Education at the South Florida Wildlife Centre, Fort Lauderdale, FL, before returning to New Zealand in 2019 as General Manager of BirdCare Aotearoa in Green Bay, Auckland. In 2023, new opportunities arose, and Lynn established WildWays Ltd to help train and consult with individuals and organisations in the ways of wildlife.
